

73% of coaching clients observe improved professional relationships and 72% note improved communication skills.¹

“ Emma is a passionate coach who feels and shares the struggles of her client. Her positive and goal-oriented approach encourages her client to have courage in facing their own difficulties and be ready to move forward. She also asks insightful questions that triggers the client to think outside of their comfort zone and gain new perspective. ”

- Consultant, Leadership Assessment Company

Are you excited about your new role but not sure what's expected of you?

Are you concerned you might not fit into the culture?

Are you keen to impress your boss and team but not sure how to go about it?

How will you navigate a new environment, focus on the key priorities and pass your probation?

Coaching with Emma will ensure you focus on the key business priorities, understand expectations and prepare to build successful relationships with your key stakeholders. Having placed and supported hundreds of professionals in new roles throughout her decades long career as a recruiter, Emma has the proven ability to provide the support and guidance to steer you towards immediate and continued triumph in your new role.

Across a series of coaching sessions, Emma will help set you up for success with tools and strategies to gain the trust of your new bosses and teams, navigate a new corporate environment, and hit the target metrics.

Coaching sessions will include*:

- Leaving your old company and previous experiences and moving forward into a new environment
- Understanding the measures of success
- Introducing yourself at the new company and highlighting your strengths
- Establishing relationships with stakeholders and understanding your impact
- Understanding how you are perceived by others
- Creating a 90 day plan to help create success

You will walk away from the How to be Successful in Your First 90 Days coaching programme with an actionable plan for the first 90 day to sail through your probation period and position yourself for ongoing success at the new company for years to come.

*May change based on the specific needs and priorities of the individual
